OG-MAN, THE MOST GLORIOUS WORK OF THE Creator, within our limited observation, is not indeed regulated by the laws of matter and motion, but a living system, over which is a ruling power guarding the constitution against disease, and repsiring every defect which may occur, but even with this superintendence the human system is a living and irritable machine, susceptible of many various irregular motions and consequences in viewing the various reflections or deviations from health, and the means of restoring it, we find every part of nature's work so intimately connected, that with difficulty we draw the line where to use a r medy to effect the vital powers. Experience, the only guardian or reasonably connecting consequences with premises, fully proves the fact that, while thousands having the veneral disease and its louthoms effects, have been cut off in the prime of youth, or suffered to linger a miserable existence, there exists a legion of living witnesses enjoying the bloom of youth, that have been cured of veneral diseases and all its ill effects, by the use of Dr Blackwell's Ant Acria Tincture and Scotch Renovator, the only medicine that will effectually cure such diseases. Sunday, Sept. 15-6 P. M. viittle doing in the stock market, and al-

s shows that from week to week there is very be mainly attributed to the limited operations at is surprisingly inactive for the season. The abundance of capital and low rate of interest do not seem to increase operations, but on the contrary, prevent any pears to be in the market an abundant supply of every lement of trade. There is any quantity of stock in the hands of the brokers, merchandise in the hands of the merchants, and produce in the hands of the producers.— This large supply operates very seriously on the demand and prevents any concentration in the hands of specula-tors, to the injury of the consuming classes. The ap-proaching season will, without doubt, he very clear of any great speculative movement. Lest spring the operaany great speculative movement. Lest spring the opera-tions in cotton, which ruined many speculators, were created by the impression that the supply would be much less than the demand, and that prices would, consequent-ly advance. We shall have none of these movements this fall. The supply of cotton will greatly exceed the demand. The crops of grain will leave us an immense surplus. The abundance of capital enables every one to hold all the stocks they wish, and the regulation of credits, will not permit any one to go far beyond their depth in any department of business. With the exception of the moderate speculations in real estate, cotton and stocks last spring there has been no indications that any very great deviation from the regular movements of trade was evidence that the tone of public feeling was decided ly against such operations. It requires something more ly against such operations. It requires something more than the abundance of money and low rate of interest to create any large speculation. Other elements of trade must be in a proper condition to inflate any bubble to any extent. At present none of the elements likely to change the present order of commercial affairs, are in the ne cessary condition, or likely to be, and we therefore lool to ward to at least one more year of regular business with prices governed by supply and demand.

The closing prices for several fancy stocks were a little higher than those ruling throughfthe week. The worst kind of fancies appear to be the favorite stocks with ope rators in the street. Morris Canal and Canton have bee in greater demand, and quotations have advanced more apidly than any others in the list.

The public are cautioned against counterfeit ten dollar bills in circulation, of the Bank of the State of South Carolina, the figure 1 at the head of the bill, being ex tracted by some chemical process and that of 10 substituted. The counterfeit can easily be detected by a closs inspection of the word "Dollars" in the body of the bill, the letter S, which is added, being rather clumsily executed with the pen.

The Baltimore money market remains without much elteration. The Banks are discounting very freely to the commercial classes, for bona fide business paper. Four months paper is taken at the rate of 5 per cent per arnum, six months paper of 6 per cent. The demand for coin has ceased. Bills on New York were at 1-10 prem The South Carolina Rail Road Company are increasing the receipts of their road very rapidly. The rescipts for August this year compared with last, show an increase of improving, and we should not be surprised to learn that it reached nearly par during the movements of the arous

These bills are gen in demand, when purchasers wish to go into the interior to buy Cotton—as the planters have a great deal more confidence in their value than in the issues of the Bank of Mebile, which is very correctly called the Little Menster of that section of country. The State Bank of Alabama is rapidly drawing from circulation its issues; according to the last report made to the Legislature, the amount in circulation reached $4.319.868.
